safety for women...*

Education—a lifelong journey of fulfillment presented by Leeanne Drummond

When it comes to lifelong learning and development, Leeanne Drummond practices what she preaches. After starting her career as a secondary school teacher she then joined the police working in both criminal investigation and the drug squad.

Moving to the government sector, Leeanne has worked for over 25 years in many areas of employment and career education including vocational education and training, focussing on apprenticeships and traineeships. She has a special interest in women working in non-traditional trades.

Leeanne is currently working as a Business Consultant with the West Coast Small Business Training Institute in Joondalup and will share with us why lifelong education and training is essential for all of us—wherever we are in our careers.
