

When was the last time you thought about your breasts?

- presented by Jo Firth of Breast Check

Unfortunately breast cancer is a fact of life; it could hit anyone of us at any time. Until now the only screening program widely available has been the mammogram. It is widely recognised as being an uncomfortable procedure (consequently avoided by some women) and not considered suitable for women under 45. The monitoring of breast health in Australia is therefore sadly less than comprehensive.

There is now another option available—which can be used on women of all ages and it's comfortable! Jo Firth of Breast Check will talk to us about the totally innovative approach offered by the Breast Check organisation.

Breast cancer is an issue for ALL women.

With one in 8 women in Australia affected by it you need to explore all the screening options available.

We look forward to you joining us –
